These local horse farms have free composted horse manure they would like to share with their "horseless" neighbors.

Note: Many horse farms do not have the time and equipment to fully compost stall waste (horse manure and wood shavings bedding) but after about six months it will naturally heap compost on its' own. You may want to check with multiple horse farms in your area to find a farm that has older compost available.

You may need to finish the composting process on your property by keeping the material moist (45-65%) and aerating it by turning the compost pile. Completing the composting process is important because as the pile heats up it will destroy any weed seeds, insect eggs and larvae. When the compost looks like black soil, it's ready to be spread. For more information about composting contact the Prince William Master Gardener Horticulture Helpline at (703) 792-7747 or click here for Virginia Cooperative Extension's publication 426-325 on Composting.
